

EMS

EMS

Judge/Executive
Harry L. Berry

Hardin County, Kentucky

County Unveils Building Plans to Employees

June 2013

Hardin County Government Employees were given the opportunity to view their new work home on May 30. The employees gave the building a “thumbs up” approval rating. Many were excited, some relieved to have more space, and others just happy to have a warm and comfortable place to work. To the right is a front view of the building.

The new county government building consists of 60,000 square feet with a basement and three above-ground floors. There will be 300 parking spaces with easy access to the Hardin County Clerk’s Office and the Hardin County Sheriff’s Tax Office on the first floor. See the photo to the left for a view of the first floor entrance.

The E-911 Dispatch Center will be safely located in the basement level, secured with heavy walls and support structure to withstand severe weather events and continue functioning.

Next to the E-911 Dispatch Center in the basement level, the Hardin County Sheriff’s Office will have additional space for its Criminal Division. This location provides the Sheriff’s Deputies easy access to the main traffic arteries for speedy emergency responses. See the aerial view of the building below.

The second floor of the building will house the PVA, Engineering Department, Planning & Development, and our Solid Waste and Code Enforcement Department. These departments rely on each other for information. It’s a good fit for them.

The third or top floor will provide space for the Judge/Executive’s Office, Finance Department, Buildings and Ground Department, along with the Fiscal Court Meeting Rooms.

The County plans to begin construction late this year and move into its new building, located at the intersection of Ring Road and the new “Patriot Parkway (formerly Rineville Road), in late 2014 or early 2015.

